Call for Submissions: Volume 6, Issue 1

The University of Ottawa Journal of Medicine (UOJM) (<http://uojm.ca/>) is a student-run, peer-reviewed medical journal published twice a year both in print and electronically. We welcome submissions from graduate and medical students that fall under one of the following categories:

Original Research
Reviews & Clinical Practice
Commentaries
Case & Elective Reports
News & Letters
Interviews
Humanities

We are currently accepting submissions of articles written in English and French for our upcoming Spring 2016 issue on Preventative and Personalized Medicine. We also welcome cover art submissions in the theme of Preventative and Personalized Medicine that will be eligible for an honorarium if selected.

The deadline for submission is March 1st, 2016 and submissions are free. We encourage early submissions as manuscripts are reviewed and accepted on a rolling basis.

We are keen to expand our journal to include more articles from medical students across the country as well as to publish more articles written in French. Please visit <http://uojm.ca/submissions/> to learn more about our submissions process.
